INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY RIGHTS: AWARENESS AND PROCEDURE

PROGRAM OVERVIEW:
Intellectual Property (IP) refers to creations of the intellect for which an exclusive right is assigned to designated owners by law. Intellectual Property Rights (IPRs) are the protections granted to the creators of IP, and include Trademarks, Copyright, Patents, Industrial Design Rights, Layout Designs of Integrated Circuits, Geographical Indications and Plant Breeder’s Rights. The registration of IPRs are territorial and must be filed in each country where protection is sought. A patent or trademark in one country does not afford protection in another country (IPO).
